HONGKONG, JUNE STH. 1912.

THE Legislative Council on Thursday postponed the Bill amending the constitution of the Appeal Court of the Colony. Many of the arguments marshalled by the Hon. Mr. Bill are certainly formidable. They show, in third Judge shall be a man of equal standshort, that to bring the Judge of H.B.M.'s ing to the Chief Justice. It may be that the Hon. Mr. Osborne which showed that given by the Chief Justica, who is necesin view of comparatively recent pronouncement of a third Judge would be most offer the suggestion of a Judge with tremely desirable requirements in relation to work in the Appeal Courts the Judge could the finances of the Colony, and I have come assist in the ordinary work of either Court to the conclusion, so far as my personal if pressure of work renders additional help view is concerned, that in the coming year necessary.

I the Colony cannot afford a third Judge." a declaration on the subject made by His Excellency in the Legislative Council in September, 1908, when Sir FREDERICK LUCARD said that, like his predecessor, he had found the general opinion to be that, except for the purposes of an Appeal Court, a third Judge was not immediately required. That was less than four years ago, and we are not aware that it can be said that the fine of $50. work of the Courts has materially increased since. It would perhaps be useful to the discussion of the question if we reproduce in its entirety Sir FREDERICK LUGARD'S May 11th. reference to the subject in the Legislative Council on 24th September, 1908.

quote from Hansard, page 126:-I have a few words to say regarding the judicial vote. Shortly after my arrival in the Colony the Chief Justice represented to me the urgent necessity of a third Judge, both in order to lighten the work of the Judges of the Supreme Court and in order to form a more effective Coart of Appeal. I found that my predecessor had not considered that the necessity had been demonstrated and that the Secretary of State, after a full review of the arguments put forward by the Chief Justice, had finally negatived the proposal. I felt myself, however, A BLEND OF THE FINEST PURE that the existing Appeal Court, consisting of two judges only, of whom the Chief Justice had a casting vote, must necessarily be very unsatisfactory, since it practically prohibited an appeal from a decision of the Chief Justice unless it was intended to take the case to the Privy Council, a course prohibitive to any but tactory to the Chief Justice as to litigants, for if at the new hearing by the Full Court he saw cause to review his former decision-more especially if this occurred more than once, he was open to the innuendo that he did not know his own mind or that he was influenced by his junior; while if he adhered to his former decision, it was alleged that the appeal was a farce. In this view I was supported by the Chief Justice and the Fuisno Judge, the Attorney General and the members of the Bar, | templating a visit to Hongkong during but, like my predecessor, t have found the general opinion to be that, except for the purposes of an Appeal Court, a third judge was not immediately required. The cost involved. estimated at $25,00), and the difficulty of finding accommodation pending the completion of the new Law Courts were additional reasons for deferring such an appointment. I suggested therefore to the Secretary of State that the Judge of the Shanghai Court should visit Hongkong twice in a year and sit as an Appeal Judge here. In this proposal the Secretary of State and the Foreign Office have agreed, but, as I have only recently received the telegram. no provision appears in the Estimates. The cost is small and is estimated at £275. must, I think, regard this as only a temporary measure, for appeal work is sure to increase and will take up more time than the Shanghai Judge can spare. It will, however. I hope, form a useful and practicable expedient to bridge over the time which must clapse before the new Law Courts are open, when, I hope, our finances may be in a better position to afford a third It will be seen from this extract that Sir

FREDERICK LUGARD, like his predecessor.

Sir MATTHEW NATHAN, was not satisfied that a third Judge was necessary, except for the purposes of the Court of Appeal. Though in his eightieth year, he had kept and we have no doubt the Colonial Office his mental and physical powers in a most will want to know what has occurred in the last four years to alter "the general opinion" on the question. As to the question of cost, it will be noticed that the estimate by Sir Frederick Lugard is double the sum suggested by the Hon. Mr. Brutus was lost off Mindanao last week, MURRAY STEWART. But, whatever the cost, but all on board were saved except the the Colony would, no doubt, give a ready assent to the expenditure if it is shown to be necessary in order to prevent the ordinary work of the Courts getting badly in arrear. So far as concerns the constitution of the Appeal Court, we are disposed to regard the alternative suggested as no great improvement on the arrangement proposed OSBORNE against the leading provision of the by the Bill, unless it is intended that the Supreme Court for China to Hongkong for Sir Frederick Lugaro, when he gave an fifteen days twice a year, to sit with the estimate of $25,000 as the cost, contwo local Judges in Appellate Jurisdiction, templated the appointment of an experiwould be certain to prove not only a most enced Judge. It would obviously not unsatisfactory but, in all probability, an enhance the prestige of the Appeal absolutely unworkable arrangement. The Court of the Colony if, say, two Passed alternative suggested is the appointment of | Cadets, promoted to the Bench, were investa third Judge. Statistics were quoted by ed with the power to reverse a judgment since the existing constitution of the Appeal sarily a man of considerable legal attain- but his Worship said he could not take Court was formed, nearly 40 years ago, ments and experience. Unless at least summary cases in the Courts have nearly one of the Judges of the Appeal Court is doubled, whilst important cases heard by regarded as of equal standing as a lawyer. the Chief Justice have quadrupled in the to the Chief Justice of the Colony we do time. Yet no increase has been made not see how the proceedings of the Appeal in the number of Judges. Prima facie Court are to escape being looked upon as a good case is made out for the appointment "somewhat farcical." There is yet another of a third Judge, not only for the purpose alternative, we think, and that is for of providing a more satisfactory Court of the Colonial Office and the Foreign Appeal, but in order to cope with the Office to come to some arrangement for the greatly increased work of the Courts. But appointment of a Judge of good standing, as an Appeal Judge for both Hongkong ments on this question, we do not consider and Shanghai. The Philippine inter-island steamer chief officer, Manuel Ayala. The steamer appears to have struck San Ramon point.

The Brutus was valued at 100,000 pesos and was not insured, so the loss on the vessel will amount to that sum. She was built at Dumbarton in 1880, her constructors being Mesers. A. McMillan & Son. Her gross tonnage was 1,277. Being one of the pioneer steamers of the inter-island trade, she was well-known at the principal ports of the Philippines.

A TRADE MARKS CASE.

At the Magistracy yesterday the case of the Wo Lee firm, of 33, Yee Woo Street, who prosecuted the Lam Fat Sing firm, of Shanghai Street, Yaumati, for infringement of trade marks in respect of grass cloth, was mentioned. Mr. Otto Kong Sing appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. G. K. H. Brutton appeared for the defence.

The case was set down for yesterday next Friday.

Mr. Brutton asked that the case be heard earlier than that. It was very important to his clients, who had goods to the value of $10,000 seized. If the goods were released, it would not matter what date was fixed for the hearing.

His Worship thought that was a matter for arrangement between the parties. Mr. Otto Kong Sing said that the goods had been seized on a sworn affidavit that they were infringing his clients' trade mark. Mr. Brutton-And that we deny.

Mr. Brutton said that as the hearing had been fixed for yesterday, it ought to be proceeded with. His Worship-Very well, I am quite

Mr. Brutton urged that the case should proceeded with and sufficient evidence heard which would allow his Worship to order the release of the goods.

Eventually it was decided to take the case to-day.

A SHIPPING CASE.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Co. sued A. R. Marty for $254.71 .- The statement of claim was to the effect that on or about August 2nd, 1910, defendant, for a valuable consideration, contracted to take from the plaintiffs a certain parcel of dental goods and convey the same by the s.s. Hanoi to the port of Hanoi, and there deliver the same to J. W. Edwards. Defendant duly received the parcel of goods from the plaintiffs on or about August 2nd, 1910, but through the neglect of defendant, his servants or agents, he failed to deliver the goods, whereby the plaintiffs had suffered a loss in the sum of $254.71. Mr. Lewis (Johnson, Stokes & Master) appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. Shenton (Deacon, A Paris wire states that the Franco-Looker & Deacon) for the defendant.

Mr. Shenton-I would ask for pleadings in this case. Negligence is alleged, and I think the plea should be justified. Mr. Lewis-If your Lordship would see the writ of summons, you would see that negligence is set out very fully.

Mr. Shenton-Particulars of negligence will be sufficient for me.

Mr. Lewis-If my friend wants particulars, I am willing. He must either give me particulars of his defence, or I must give notice for him to admit facts. Will your Lordship order particulars of alleged negligence and mutual dis-

CANTON.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.] June 6th.

WU HON MAN.

The Provincial Assembly in Canton does not seem to get on too well with its head. It is not so long since they were protesting against the late Governor, high-handed manner of dealing, while now they are objecting to Mr. Wu's partiality, as they call it, meaning his disregard of their wishes. It has been to protest and to find out the powers and jurisdiction of the Provincial Assembly. PURIFYING THE RIVER.

A great amount of refuse of all sorts finds its way into the river, and especially into the different creeks, causing nauseous smells and helping to breed vermin and spread disease. Not only Macaos are firmer with sales at 82/1 and this, but this water is used by a large purposes, and by the poorer people even for cooking. The attention of the sanitary department has been drawn to but no business is reported. this matter, and in the interests of the health of the community they have decreed that no refuse is to be thrown into the river under penalty of imprisonment, and that all lavatories, etc., in the near vicinity of the river or creeks are to be removed within a week. There are plenty, of facilities for the removal of refuse, and it is proposed even to augment those. If this matter receives the serious unsideration which these preliminaries seem to imply, it ought to have a good effect upon the health of the community. A NEW RIDING CLUB.

It has been proposed to form a large Riding and Shooting Club near the East. Gate, and the matter has received great attention from the rich and influential people. A large sum of money has been put forward and the matter is in the hands of Li Chi Chung and others, who have approached the Government for recognition and protection, bringing forward the argument that it will be greatly to the benefit of the Army in providing them with officers and strong healthy soldiers. It has received the ganction of the Governor.

LOCAL HANK-NOTER.

There is still trouble in connection with the local bank-notes. Some shopkeepers, despite Government notices and warnings, refuse to accept them at all, while others continue to demand a discount, so that every day sees some row caused by this. Yesterday, a soldier fell foul of a moneychanger who demanded about 10 per cent. discount, and they came to blows. with the result that the money-changer imprisonment for lowering the value of the legal currency. Something will have to be done soon in this matter, for one sees in large stores this notice every day, "Chinese bank-notes not accepted in payment," and there are a tremendous amount of these at present in circulation.

THE WEATHER. The weather over the whole delta has for the past week been very unsettled. Much more rain has fallen than usual, and thunderstorms have been frequent, the other. On Wednesday it rained heavily, continuously all day, and the river has risen considerably, so that flooding in the streets in the lower parts of the city is worse than ever. The West River rising and rushing down past Samshui is causing very strong tides, and to cross the and unsinkable in all imaginable conriver at present is a matter of some

The owners are requested to bring their arms for inspection in order that a list may be made up. The Government reserves the right to retain any they think fit, but in all cases compensation will be made. All holders of previously issued permits three and four on the Benguet road, fell will receive this licence on presentation on Friday afternoon May 31st, while the of the old one and their rifle for examina- the workmen were putting it into position. This matter is being taken up thoroughly and it will certainly do great deal for the peace of the province. In the city and suburbs and the near districts the arrangements are almost sure to work successfully, but it remains to be seen how far success will attend caused by the slipping of one of the these efforts in the Delta.

THREE CORNERED SHIP.

Professor Otto Kretschmer, dean of the marine engineering department of the Charlottenburg Technical School and late Chief Constructor of the German Navy, has published plans for an "unsinkable" vessel of novel design.

It is to be a three-cornered, or "tetrahedral," ship, and its other unique feature is that it will be "a ship within a In other words, Professor Kretschmer proposes to make it unsinkable by constructing two absolutely separate and distinct hulls, one within

The inner ship is to contain the vessel proper, especially all the engines, boilers, and coal-bunkers, so that in case of such a collision as that which sent the Titanic to the bottom, only the outer keel or walls of the vessel can be damaged or caved in There are no communicating doors leading into the "inner ship," which the designer declares would remain affoat

"Journal for Practical Machine-Building," in the current number of which Professor Kretschmer outlines his scheme, he states that there is grave danger that the world will be lulled back into its old belief in the infallibility of the traditional form of ship. He the heat of anger, that the Japanese were asserts there will be no positive safety of life at sea till shipowners and shipbuilders can be compelled to abandon the imperious will, and a bargain with the present type of construction.

I happen to have shares in one of the companies mentioned, but this is the first information I have had that the company is to be dissolved. The Hongkong Government, I believe, receives a considerable revenue from Shanghai companies for the privilege they have of being registered in poppy before the year 1917, (the 9th year the Colony, and shareholders are happy of Hsuantung) the importation of opium in the thought that this registration in from India will correspondingly be stopa British Colony affords them some Bort | ped. MR. ROOSEVELT AND ORIENTAL IMMIGRATION.

The San Francisco Chronicle has stated the case for California against Mr. Roosevelt in these terms:

"There is one thing upon which Califormians are pretty well united, and that is on the question of Oriental immigration. On repeated occasions the voters i of the State have shown that they are nearly a unit on this subject, and that they would present a solid front against any candidate who had declared himsel in favour of throwing wide open th doors to this undesirable class

CHINA'S NATIONAL COUNCIL.

INTRODUCTION OF AN ANTI-OPIUM BILL. An Anti-Opium Bill is before the National Council at Peking. The Peking Daily News (a Chinese paper printed in English) says:-

The members of the Council who introduced the Bill into the Assembly state that there are three reasons for its intro-drug as a social evil the necessity of its immediate eradication is given as the first reason. The second reason for the Bill is to discharge our international obligation placed upon the country by the conclusion of the Opium Convention with Great Britain. Article 2 of the Convention provides that if China can effect total suppression of the plantation of the opium cultivation at an earlier date than 1917, but seems to encourage China to suppress opium effectively.

The third reason is that uniformity should be maintained in all government measures. It is absolutely necessary that there should be uniformity throughout the country in the matter of the suppression of opium. The Convention provides, in article 3, that Indian opium will not be imported into the province where the cultivation of opium has been totally suppressed. Opium is strictly prohibited in Hunan and Chekiang, but there are other provinces wherein the drug should also be suppressed. It is therefore considered indispensible that laws for the suppression of opium should be passed by the National Council and strictly enforced in the different provinces.

The Bill aims at the suppression o cultivation, sale and consumption of opium and is divided into five chapters, consisting in all of 15 articles. Chapter deals with General Provisions wherein it is provided that the opium evil is to be totally suppresed by the end of December of the first year of the Republic, and that the present law is only applicable to I am very sorry, but I have opium bureaux and their branches in the different provinces shall dispatch district, who is required to uproot the poppy and to punish the offenders according to Article 1 of the Anti-Opium laws.

For the suppression of sale of opium, it is provided (Art. 4) that by July, this their branches shall dispatch deputies to inspect the books of all the opium dealers to find out how much has been sold during June and how much is left over and to make an inventory showing the amount of opium required by each dealer up to the end of December, the amount to be computed by making a monthly reduction of 20 per cent. of their respective monthly sales, minus the amount in stock. The inventory is to be put on file in the bureaux and branch bureaux for reference. After July 20th of this year, the anti-opium bureaux and their branches will issue to each opium dealer a certificate for the purchase of not exceed the amount computed according to the preceding article (Article 5). All opium dealers shall close their shops by the end of December of this year, and the opium unsold shall be surrendered to the anti-opium bureaux or their branches to be destroyed. Any violation of this article shall subject the shop to be sealed and the owner to imprisonment of from the third to the fifth grade (Art. 6).

For the regulation of opium-smoking, it is provided that every opium-smoker shall be required by July of this year to renew his licence to smoke opium in the provincial anti-opium bureaux and their branches, once every month. The bureau in renewing the licence shall state therein the amount consumed by the licencee, which is to be divided into ten parts of which two parts are henceforth to be reduced every month. Ten days previous to the limit set for the total suppression of opium every opium-smoker shall sur render to the anti-opium bureau the apparatus for opium smoking and the opium unconsumed, irrespective of whether he has been cured of the habit or not. period, anybody found to possess opium apparatus for opium-smoking in secret shall be subject to imprisonment of from the third to the fifth grade, and anybody found in possession of apparatus for opium-smoking shall be subject to a fine of not more than 100 dollars. At the expiration of the time limit, any male "Not only did Roosevelt take this opium-smoker who shall not have cured themselves of the opium evil shall enter anti-opium bureaux to be cured thereof, and every opium-smoker who is a female or is old, weak or sick, shall report at the anti-opium bureaux the amount of opium consumed by her or him every day may be issued thereby for the purchase of a stated amount of anti-opium medicine. Anybody found to prepare opium for clandestine consumption in violation of the present article shall be subject to (Article 7-11.)

All the provinces which have not yet established anti-opium bureaux are enjoined by the present law to do so without delay, and the Ministry of Interior is empowered to draw up regulations for

THE NIPPON YUSEN KAISHA.

HALF-YEARLY REPORT.

The half-yearly meeting of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha was held in the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce building on the 28th ult. to receive the report and accounts for the six months ending March 31st. The following is a summary of the . accounts:---

Brought forward from last term Total 2,919,965 Reserve for supplementing the deficiency in the Subsidies .... 258,579 Funds for the expansion of services and improvements on steamers .... Bonusca to officials ..... Dividend (ten per cent. per annum) ...... 1,100,000 Carried to next term The following is the report for the

During the first half of the business year ending March 31st, the Company had in use 70 steamers of its own, aggregating 287,000 tons, in addition to seven other specially commissioned vessels, representing 26,000 tons, as well as several chartered steamers. The passengers carried during the period numbered 79,000; goods transported amounted to 1;640,000 tons; while the distance travelled was 1,600,000 nautical

Domestic Service.—During the period under review the shipping business was very brisk in all directions, and the Company had to hire several steamers to cope with the trade. The number of passengers increased, especially in the direction of Formosa.

Far Eastern Service.-Generally speak ing, the shipping business on this service was dull. In the direction of Shanghai there was a considerable diminution in the shipments, due to the revolution in China since October last. To Tientsin, however, shipping traffic was very active. but to Newchwang and Dairen the contrary was the case. In Vladivostock and Chosen there was some increase in the business done, as compared with the preceding term. In passenger traffic there was a remarkable increase in the direction of Shanghai.

European Service.—In addition to eleven regular liners, the Company hired two steamers. On the outgoing voyages the goods carried were nearly equal to those of the corresponding period of the preceding year. The exports to Shanghai diminished greatly on account of the revolution, but business in the direction of Hongkong, the Straits Settlements and Colombo was nearly equal to that of the preceding year. On the return voyages. too, the business was almost the same as in the preceding period, with the exception of machinery and articles for industrial purposes, which showed some increase. Owing to the strike of miners Always have on hand a very large complete in England in March last, the shipping business of the Company suffered considerably, but there was a great increase in passenger traffic, the Japanese steerage passengers to Singapore showing a great increase.

American Service.—In addition to three vessels running between Hongkong and Scattle, the Company placed another steamer on the Kobe-Scattle Line, which had been served by two steamers since 1910. In fact, the Company has now opened a fortnightly service between Hongkong and Scattle. On the outgoing DRAWING voyage the shipments of cereals and foodstuffs generally to the Pacific Coast increased considerably, while the shipments of flour to Japan and other Asiatic ports also increased. The number of passengers increased both on the outward and return voyages.

Australian Service. -On the outgoing voyages the shipments from Japan and Hongkong were favourable, and the same may be said of shipments from Australia to Hongkong and Japan ports. The number of Russian emigrants to Australia and of Japanese emigrants to Manila was unexpectedly large.

Bombay Service.-On the outgoing voyages there was a decline in the shipments from Japan, Hongkong and Singapore, but on the return voyages the shipments of cotton to Japan were unusually large, the Company being obliged to charter foreign steamers at exorbitant rates to cope with the busi-

Calcutta Service. - This service, which was opened in the preceding half-year is now being carried on by five vessels. On the outgoing voyages there were large shipments. Keen competition now prevails with various foreign shipping concerns on this line, and the Company is determined to continue the contest to the bitter end.

DEATH OF MR. CHESTER HOLCOMB.

American newspapers announce the death, on April 25th, at Lyons, New York, of Mr. Chester Holcomb, who was for some years an official of the American Legation at Peking. Mr. Holcomb was born in 1844 and graduated at Union College in 1861. Later he became interpreter and Secretary of the Ameriimprisonment of the fifth grade or to a can Legation here, and at several fine of not more than 1,000 dollars periods between 1875 and 1883 was Acting Minister. In 1889 he was a member of the Commission that negotiated the treaties with China. Mr. Holcomb was an accomplished Chinese scholar and wrote a number of valuable books. He was the author of a Neutral Arithmetic, a Life of Christ, and a Translation of the American declaration of Independence-in Chinese; and a number of works in English dealing with China and Chinese questions, among these: The Practical Effect of Confucianism upon the Chinese Nation; Travels in Western China; Catalogue and Hand Book of Antique Chinese Porcelains; ever cured any persons by these means?" | church would make matters easier for | The Real Chinaman; The Real Chinese was the next question. ### A LESSON IN GOLF.

IBY ARCHIBALD MARSHALL IN THE " DALLY MAIL."

Now, first of all, I'll tell you how to hold your club." Tells him at considerable length.

"That's right. Now swing it back slowly, like this -see? No, no, don't lift your head. You must keep your eye on the ball."

"But there isn't a ball." "Well, keep it on that daisy. Then bring the club down in the same way you've taken it up and follow through;

like this—see 1 "That right ?"

Impatiently: "No, no. Your body's all over the place. You must use your backbone as a pivot, like this-see?"

"That better?" "Do it again." Now you've got both your thumbs down the shaft of the club. Yes, that's a bit more like it. Try and imitate me, like this -see? Go on swing-

Teacher swings backwards and forwards, feeling like Braid. Novice imitates him to the best of his ability.

Novice: "Well, I've had enough of this. I should like to see if I can give the pill a smite now."

"All right, we'll put one down. But don't talk about a smite. Golf isn't cricket. It's all done with a gentle swing. There! Now, keep your body still, slow back, fight with your left hand, loose with

"How can I keep my eye on it when it's gone if I don't look up ?"

"Perhaps it won't have gone. Ha, ha!" Novice eyes him resentfully. "Look here, do you mean to say I can't shift that little pill if I try?"

"Now you've got your body all out of position when you'd just got it right. Don't talk! Try and do something."

Novice takes a mighty swipe, breaks every known commandment, and sends the ball a hundred and eighty yards straight down the course. "I say! That was all right-what? This is a topping game, and much easier than I thought. Now you have a knock."

"My dear fellow, that stroke was a fluke in a thousand-in a hundred thousand. You didn't do a single one of the things I've been telling you."

"Well, I shifted the pill, anyway. Now you shift yours. You're going to give me two strokes a hole, aren't you?"

Oh, we're not ready to begin the game yet. Good heavens! if you were to play any more strokes in that style I should be able to give you five strokes a hole and beat you. New practise a few more swings without the ball, and then we'll begin." "Not much, old boy. That's my drive, and I'll abide by it. Now you deal your globe a blow." Teacher does so, after some expostula-tion, and tops it forty yards. "Ah, I took my eye off. That's a thing you must never do. If you get hold of that one thing this morning you'll have done pretty well." "I've done better than you as it is. We're playing nine holes for a yellow boy, aren't we? That was the proposi-

"Yes. Now you see I'm lying well, so take my brassy." More instruction, followed-by stroke.

Ball flies off at an angle of thirty degrees to the right. "Sliced! I drew in my arms like this

"Yes, I see. Why did you?" "You must let your arms go out free, like this-sce? Better just practise a few swings before we go on."

"No, thanks. I shall do it all right on the night. Here we part, I suppose."

"I'll come with you and see that you hit your ball right. This is a short hole, and you're just within mashie shot of the green, but you've got to get over that bunker. You must play a lofting stroke, like this-see?"

Much more instruction: Novice produces a stroke never before seen in the annals of golf. Ball bounds and ducks along course, hops over bunker, hits a bank, and rolls down on to green within six feet of pin. "That's not so dusty. ch? Do they generally jump over bunkers. like that?"

Bitterly: "Do they generally jump over bunkers! No, they don't. If you hand't had luck you'd have been in the bottom of that one, and that's where you ought to be. You didn't use your wrists a bit as I told you to. You just took a slog and sent the ball along anyhow."

"Well, I sent it where I wanted it to go. You go and do the same to yours." Teacher trudges off to the right, plays a perfect mashie shot on to the green, and returns with complacency.

"Now that was a fine shot, though I say it. Did you notice I w I worked it? I took my club back slowly, like thissee ? "

"I beat you without 'em last hole, old man-beat Bogey, too, by Jove. First hole I've ever played. I should think that's a record. Now for it!" Swipes. Misses ball altogether. Teacher makes no effort to conceal satisfaction.

Novice takes brassy, but entirely fails to do the same. Renewed instruction, and interval of club-swinging. Teacher's tone of somewhat impatient authority restored.

"Oh, my goodness! Every bit of your body jumping about all over the place. Look here, I told you to keep your back-bone as a pivot, like this see? This is what you're doing."

Novice, nettled, puts in powerful work with cleek. Bail runs up alongside. teacher's, as if seeking for sympathy. "That's better, ch? I'm three strokes and

GUARANTEED UNDER THE PURE FOOD AND DRUGS ACT, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

On every hottle of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills sold in the United States of America there is placed an extra label, bearing a multiber and the word "Guaranteed" which denotes that the proprietors of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills guarantee that they contain nothing that is not in strict accordance with the Pure Food, and Drugs Act. It is further guaranteed that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills comply with the regulations of the Department of Health, both as to the standard of purity of the ingredients used in their manufacture, and also that they are a good, wholesome remedy for the purposen they are advertised for. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are a purely vegetable sugar coated medicinal preparation, carefully compounded by experts, and are manufactured on the premises under the direct supervision of the proprietors. The care taken in the production of these Pills, is illustrated by the manner in which they are packed. Instead of being put up in cheap wooden boxes -that absorb poisonous and other substances they are packed in glass bottles at a cost of five or six times that of wooden boxes. The extra cost is more than made up in the satisfaction of knowing that the Pills reach the public just as they left the laboratory, unaffected by moisture or climatic changes and free from contamination by contact with any foreign matter.

FASHIONS AND FANCIES.

FASHION'S PUBLIC VIEW.

The evening dress of the moment is very lovely, and there are one or two places in London where the initiated know that they can on any occasion have a full view of the levelicat freeks of the moment. Naturally these are not the places where Mayfair goes. Those who are interested in the denizens of Mayfair know where to find them in the evenings at dinner and supper, but those who are interested in dress itself are aware that the famous gathering-place of stage stars and "smart" women is, without doubt, the place in which to study the last word in frocks. The difference is simply that about real society there still lingers the influence of the old saying that a lady should always be sufficiently well-dressed to be in conspicuous, and, consequently, their clothes are already modified. popular footlight favourites, unrestrained by any such tradition, and on the other hand fulls aware that suppor parties are among the most valuable forms of advertisement, can be trusted to wear the most advanced fashions of the moment.

BLACK BATIN DE LUXE.

A tall and slender woman the other night was wearing a very lovely gown of thick and rich black satin. The top of the bodice was softened with a searf very beautiful erenmy lace, fine and This was carried over the shoulders, was crossed on the slender and upright back, carried down to the hips, and then in a long curve brought round to the front, where, at the level of the knees, it met beneath a huge butterflyshaped ornament of diamonds. The front of the skirt showed us the revival of an old fashion-the full petticoat of lace forming a panel. The lace in this instance was white, and of different kind from that of the scarf, less fine and bolder in design. The diamond butterfly and the scarf ends thus kept in place the folds of the petti-There was a long, narrow skirt, ending in one of those pointed trains which form an infallible method of tripping up even the most experienced man accustomed to every other variety of that frivolity described by a distinguished American as "a passion for trailing yards of dry goods behind you."

THE MARIE ANTOINETTE NECKLET.

A band of black velvet, wern high round the neck, is thoroughly fixed in fashionable favour, particularly on young women, or on those with silver hair. Two young girls, evidently enjoying a birthday treat from their father mother, were supping at a table the black-satin lady. One wore white, with a bunch of silver snowdrops in the front of her dress, and a trimming of silver gauze veiled with white tuile. From the black velvet round her throat shaped pearl. Her sister, older by a one of those designs which are all over little diamond slide.

SOME EFFECTS IN FIGHUS.

The brilliant colours which obtain for the moment in evening dress are most effective when carried out in soft and cloudy, materials. In such positive subrice as satin and silk they are very apt to be unbecoming. Although the craze for yeiled frocks has unfortunately died out, the beauty of the effects only to be obtained in this way has recognised, and is retained in trimmings. Thus a lovely frock of pale blue and Bilver-shot gauze, made in almost Marie Antoinetto style, over a petticoat of fine deep-tinted lace, has a fichu of mauve, near the edge of specially bent frames. blue and pink chiffon, most softly They are, indeed, rather like a Chinese arranged and skilfully intermingled. It is edged with the coffee-tinted lace, and a narrow line of black velvet ribbon, where lace meets fichu, matches a bow of black velvet on the lace petticoat.

IDEAS FROM-FANCY DRESS.

Elaborate and beautiful as are evening frocks just now, it might be thought that fancy dress could lend no further variety to it; but it does, and picturesquely enough. This is because ordinary evening dress is now sufficiently wonderful to become fancy dress with the addition of a new head-dress or a different trimming. Therefore, at the many costume balls, which are still the rage, one sees frocks which remind one of the best and most artistic evening gowns of the moment, and yet have that touch of individuality which makes them more successful than any ordinary evening gown. At a costume ball given the other evening there were two particularly levely dresses, One was of emerald-green brocade, closely patterned with gold in a woven design. It ended in a long-pointed train. Over it was a tunic of dull royal blue chiffon, on which were Empire wreaths carried out in pale gold. That was all. There were no fussy trimmings, and the make was absolutely simple, with the simplicity which all women long to be able to afford, and all, men, in their ignorance, wonder why so many women do not follow. The effect of the dull, and yet intense, blue above the candid vividness of the emerald-green was mysterious and beautiful in a very high degree. A green and gold turban carried on the note of the dress, and was properly worn. This last is a point worth noting. Turbans do not suit everybody, but everybody has been wearing them, a fact which gives one a very low opinion of the intelligence those women who adopt a fashion without waiting to see whether it suits

The gown "flapper" visible heneath her conscious was made semi-loose, and continued into composure, wore a charming frock of a pointed train. On the shoulders it was pale blue and while striped chiffon, made cut in a V. That was all. Here again with irresponsible little frills bursting there were no irrelevant trimmings, and out of it here and there as though its no lines interrupted for the sake of wearer's high spirits were typified. cramming on another piece of visible There was a slightly panier effect about expense. In the last few years, since the the skirt, attained by a ruche of the revival of brocades brought into being a same stuff just below the knees, which great number of exquisite new materials, caught the skirt into a little bunch above it has been most irritating to note the it. The fair hair was tied with blue and way in which a fabric which ought to silver gauze, and the Marie Antoinette be left to itself has been fussed and band of velvet was diversified with a hustled into companionship with ribbons and all kinds of elaborations in a manner which showed how very little the wearer cared for beauty, and how strongly she preferred vulgarity.

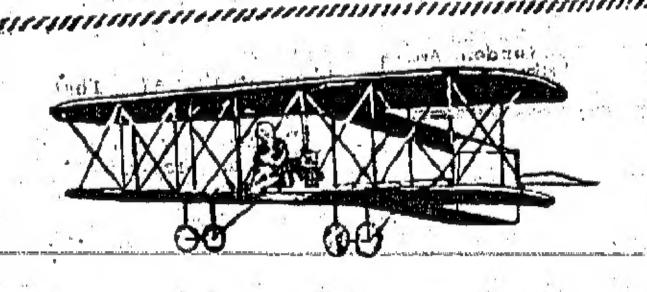

THE NEW SUNSHADES.

Last year the fashionable sunshade was very small, and had a high dome copied from the mid-Victorian parasol. The year before that it was not quite so small, and was fringed, and, in fact, formed an excellent reproduction of the little early Victorian folding toys which were seen in the barouches of the genteel. This year they are large and almost flat, only taking a slight downward curve a narrow fringe, but in a day when we are all wearing large hats such appendages are very inconvenient, and may safely be discarded even by those most anxious to keep up to date with fashion. The bordered materials which are the rage for frocks make very good sunshades, but it is very doubtful if it is a good thing to over-emphasise a gown by carrying a sunshade of the same material Many a good frock has been sported in some such way as this. A sunshade; however, can be made of borddred material without the frock with which it is carried necessarily being of the same stuff. It is far more subtle to have the gauze petticoat matching the sunshade. Some of the new parasols are so large that one wonders what will become of two people both anxious to shade themselves in the same carriage. A bow of brightly coloured ribbon round the ferrule, or a cluster of sittem. flowers: forming a wreath round thertoprof the sunshade when it is closed are pretty devices, but should, of course, only he adopted by those who are driving. Such details are most unsuitable for those who are on Some very pretty sunshades fare made of plain silk and are lined with painted chiffon, whose colours are those most becoming to the owner.-X. ### Burgess' Endurance and Vitality—

It is the big success, the great deed itself, that proves the wisdom of Burgess in employing Phosferine to provide the endurance and energy which enabled him to swim the Channel. To Phosferine the mighty Yorkshireman owes it that he has achieved more than any other living man, for on this historic occasion he used Phosferine to prepare for his daring and thrilling 23 hours' swim! Comparing his triumph with his previous failures, Burgess declares that the unlimited nerve force derived from Phosferine furnished the endurance to finish his swim successfully this time. Obviously Phosferine was the making of Burgess great deed, and alike with other innumerable victors who have achieved renown by the invigorating aid of Phosferine, he frankly declares that Phosferine alone provides the force and vitality necessary for continuous mental and physical exertion.

How he made success sure.

Mr. T. W. Burgess, 30, Dover Road, Walmer, Deal, writes:- "I am very pleased to place on record my keen appreciation of Phosferine as a nerve and muscle tonic of the highest order. I have proved from experience the unfailing efficacy of this admirable remedy, and in preparing for this special demand upon my energies, it has been of incalculable benefit to me, and its recuperative effects immediately after my successful Channel Swim were excellent. Its sustaining and strengthening properties are very marked, and for nervous breakdown and feats of physical endurance I consider Phosferine is indispensable."

rounded by trees, that when spring should come, would be spread with a carpet of golden daffodils. It was quiet and peaceful, and within easy reach of the sea: Mrs. Perkins was a charming old lady, and took a fancy to Kitty at once when they met at Bunstall railway station, and Kitty, who was as we know of a very sympathetic nature, fell in love with Mrs. Perkins on the journey to London. The two travelled up alone in a first-class carriage, while the maid travelled in a second-class compartment.

"I think it is so sweet of you, dear, to be willing to leave your young companions and come away to cheer an old woman who has no daughter," she said. "But I will try to give you a good time. There is a good theatre at Hastings, and some a lot, if I can do it quietly. And, dear, you must let me provide for you as a daughter while with me. You must have pocket money-I thought, dear, twenty pounds, and then your frocks must be my concern."

Kitty could scarcely believe her good luck. She would be able to return the Debility and Malaria. F's saw a man of thirty or so, whose bank note to her uncle who so much needed fac was strong without being handsome, it. How kind and tolerant her aunt and whose hair was greying on the temples, uncle had been when she had been so obwhose brown eyes were wells of stinately silent! They had not scolded, kindness. She saw that his tall figure or reproached her; and she knew quite had a slight stoop, which (although she well that they must have believed she had did not know it) was the outcome of committed some folly. They would have been justified in being angry. But they "Till we meet again," he said; as he had only aranged to protect her! If they held her hands in his, and looked steadily only knew! But some day they would-She said nothing, but her innocent eyes she would try to please Mrs. Perand kindness that he nearly forgot him- Oh, if she would! There were all those small cousins to be educated, and "I shall come right to your uncle's and clothed! It would be such a help if she lost strength and weight."

It was when they were all established in Wellington Square, that Kitty discovered the fly in her pot of ointment. She did not know Richard Carnac's They parted, he taking the long white address. He would go to her uncle's to ask for her, and her uncle would refuse her address; for he would think at once that Carnac was the other referred to in that unfortunate "we." Oh. yes, had said, " I'e forgot the candle." uncle would think Carnac dishonourable, to have met her in that underhand way, and she-she had no means of letting Carnac know.

It was then that Kitty discovered that pity was akin to love; nay, she found that in her case it was love. Not to see him again! The thought was intolerable: One sunny morning-a week or so after coming to Hastings-Mrs. Perkins was seated in her bath chair on the sea front basking in the glorious sunshine, December though it was. She had had it drawn up near one of the shelters by the Baths, and had sent the man away for an hour. Kitty was sitting in the shelter softly reading aloud to the old lady. Ali at once Mrs. Perkins interrupted Kitty.

"Now what you are reading makes me recall the case of poor Richard Carnac," Dr. Lavenel and his wife discussed this she said. "I don't know why it should exactly, except that it is a case of unjust. suspicion. You don't know about the comer. But I remember when the big down, was the home of the Carnaes. I remember young Richard-poor young Richard—as a mischievous schoolboy, but such a dear boy! I remember when no was appointed private secretary to Lord Wrothwell; I remember the forging of the cheques, of which poor Richard was accused, and convicted, and, after years in prison, the truth came out, and he was found innocent. He is recently out of prison. When I feel better, I must try to find where he is, for I want to see him again, and to tell him that I at least always believed in him. You know, way his friends turned their backs on It was not with the loss of Richard him! voice to go on reading. The old lady listened with keen interest, her chin buried in the turned-up collar of her sealskin coat; her white hair glistening in the brilliant winter sunlight, her beautiful old face radiating contentment. DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

When Mr. Charles Nelson first landed in Manila, to take up an appointment in the Government Secret Service, he had a constitution and physique of which arduous nature of his work, in the enervating climate of the Philippines has been the unhappy experience of thousands of others, he was a fit and easy prey for Malaria.

"After the Malaria got hold of my system the miseries I endured cannot be expressed in words," said Mr. Nelson when seen recently at his home, 167, Calle Eleano, Manila. "Attacks of Ague became of daily occurrence, and the fever so lowered my vitality that I suffered torments from Headaches and Neuralgia. Eventually the doctor sent me into hospital, where I remained a month.

One day it would be Headache, the next day Ague, and then a bout of Fever. No matter what medicine I took all were equally powerless to rid me of the Prompted by statements which I read in the newspaper that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had actually cured Malaria, I gave these Pills a trial. Even with the first buttle they improved my appetite, and as my digestive organs became strengthened I put on weight. DECREASING NERVE FORCE.

BOW THE WEAKNESS MAY BE COMPLETELY

Few conditions are more depressing on the one hand and irritating on the other than those which arise from a gradual failing of perve force. The unfortunate sufferer feels his strength gradually surface, near the shore, ready for hire, obbing away, and is, every day, more Gay pedestrians paced ine promenade, in conscious that he is less able to perform fantastic headgear, and carrying his alloted task until it seems as if the enormous muffs, though coats were only course open to him is to resign his thrown open on account of the warmth. office. The consequence is, that before they know where they are they have become slaves to habits from the thraldom of which they would give anything to

THIS IS THE REASON WHY.

Happily, an easy way exists out of the slavery, if it has, unfortunately, been acquired, as well as from the feeling of weakness. This is through the aid Sanatogen. It is too late in the day attempt to sing the praises of this preparation, for its reputation is world-wide, and, among doctors, it enjoys the reputation of a health restorative second to none. Indeed, it is not going too far to say that the medical profession throughout the civilised world now looks upon it as a means of restoring health, and even of saving life, when everything else has failed. As a matter of fact, the number of cases in which doctors have placed it on record that, in their unqualified opinion, Sanatogen has saved the life of their patients, may be counted in hundreds if not in thousands. Carnac smiled a little grimly.

After luncheon the real difficult position presented itself; and Mr. Perkins was the instigator of the situation, albeit unconscious that she was so.

"Kitty," she broke out, as soon as she had pushed away her untouched coffee, Hastings air makes me so sleepy, really must ask you both to excuse me, while I go to have a nap."

Kitty and Richard were left alone, and with one accord, went to the balcony where there were seats. It was Richard who closed the windows, so that the parlour-maid should hear glad as I am? Do you know I managed to burn down the old home?" "Yes, said Kitty, "and that is why I am here. I said, 'Oh, we forgot the candle !'- when the house was blazing, and when Aunt Mary asked me to explain I was silent; and I think-they thought I had a sweetheart; and well, you see, they thought it was not above-board, and they got me away." "Poor little woman!" he said tenderly, and you were silent for my sake. To think I should have caused you sorrow!" He tried to take her hand, but she gently withdrew it.

"You are not angry with me, Kitty?"
he asked anxiously. "We came so near, you and I, that I thought-" "Oh no, I am not angry," she answered tonelessly. She was not angry. She was only very miscrable. She knew instinctively that the woman she had seen with Carnac was his old sweetheart. She was sure of it, and a sense of bitter humiliation covered her, as she realised how much she cared. She ought to be glad that Carnac was at last to have the woman he loved. But

He saw coat he had made a mistake. The girl was evidently herself now, and her modest reserve, which had gone to the winds in his extremity, had reasserted

"Now he is going to tell me all about her," thought poor Kitty. He went on. "I did not mean to tell you for ever so long. I wanted you to know me better." "Now it is coming," thought Kitty with a choke in her throat.

"I love you, Kitty. Love can be born in one such tragic hour as we shared, and I want to ask you to take the life you saved! Kitty, if you knew, if you only knew how I loved you all at once, as we held each other's hands in that desolate garden: I will not press you, darling. But will you give me a chance to win
